Determination of Spot Holders For Higher Prices Steadies Market in New Orleans.

By The Associated Press.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 25.—Week-end covering of the short interests put the price of cotton at higher levels today, the market having a very steady undertone from the opening call to the close. Highest levels were reached late in the session when the active months were up to 10 cents over yesterday's final price, last price showing net gains of 5 to 15 cents.

Spot trading up to 25 cents and October up to 15.50. Spots were nominally unchanged at 25.50 for middling.

Buyers found little cotton for sale, fresh selling for short account being restricted in numerous reports from the interior that spot holders were more determined than ever in their stand for higher prices and by the growing agitation to reduce the acreage of the new crop. Cotton purchases of Louisiana amounted to zero in that movement and bankers would refuse to make advances against the new crop unless farmers agreed to cut acreage of least thirty per cent.

OVERNIGHT STRENGTH DEVELOPS IN COTTON.

By The Associated Press.

New York, Jan. 25.—Buying movement which had deviated around the resistance level for May cotton yesterday's early break in the cotton market was renewed this morning, and there was a further sharp recovery in prices. The general lead gained steadily at a net advance of 10 to 20 cents.

The overall demand firm at an advance of 5 to 10 cents on overnight buying moves, houses with Wall Street money bags were particularly good buyers and there was probably scattered buying on an expectation that the lifting of restrictions on the use of money in stock market operations would lead to a broadening of interest in cotton also. Liverpool was among the early buyers and there was no scattering trade demand particularly on the basis monthly, which in the opinion of some authorities are probably selling below the cost of production.

There was scattered evidence of the advance which ranged to 25.50 for March, and 3.50 for July, or about 7½ to 10 points, or higher on all crop positions, while October sold at 19.50 or 15 points higher. Increased south end offerings were encountered at this level, however, and the market was irregular in the later trading, with last prices showing reactions of about 5 to 10 points from the best.
